in digestion in literature and film a transcultural approach is a collection of essays spanning diverse geographic areas such as brazil eastern europe france ireland italy japan mexico south korea taiwan and the united states despite this geographic variance they all question disordered eating practices represented in literary and filmic works the collection ultimately redefines disorder removing the pathology and stigma assigned to acts of non normative eating in so doing the essays deem taboo practices of food consumption rejection and avoidance as expressions of resistance and defiance in the face of restrictive sociocultural political and economic normativities as a result disorder no longer equates to out of order implying a sense of brokenness but is instead envisioned as an act against the dominant of order of operations the collection therefore shifts critical focus from the eater as the embodiment of disorder to the problematic norms that defines behaviors as such anorexia bulimia signal a troubled body and soul cried a headline in usa today the nation s no 1 newspaper these serious eating disorders plague people of all ages but mostly adolescent girls untreated anorexia and bulimia can be life threatening even when the diseases are diagnosed and treated the road to recovery is difficult and sometimes lasts a lifetime in the united states as many as eleven million people suffer from eating disorders in this book you ll investigate the complex causes and devastating effects of anorexia and bulimia case studies let you follow the progression of these disorders in individuals from their first purging episode through the pain of hiding the affliction from loved ones to the eventual realization that they are suffering from a disorder and need help you ll also find detailed information on treatment options and support organizations this book helps you better understand the severity of these disorders and gives you the tools necessary to help yourself or loved ones who need your support culture bodies and the sociology of health explores the boundaries between bodies and society with special reference to uncovering the cultural components of health and the ways in which bodies are categorized according to a form of culturally embedded health orthodoxy illustrating the importance of contextualizing the body as a cultural entity this book demonstrates that the spaces and boundaries between healthy bodies are becoming more diverse than ever before the volumes international team of scholars engage with a range of issues surrounding the cultural construction of the body as a site of health and illness as such it will be of interest not only to sociologists especially sociologists of health but also to scholars of media and communication studies as well as cultural theorists this book brings together an international range of cutting edge contemporary feminist research and theory on eating disorders preventing harmful behaviour in online communities explores the ethics and logistics of censoring problematic communications online that might encourage a person to engage in harmful behaviour using an approach based on theories of digital rhetoric and close primary source analysis zoe alderton draws on group dynamics research in relation to the way in which some online communities foster negative and destructive ideas encouraging community members to engage in practices including self harm disordered eating and suicide this book offers insight into the dangerous gap between the clinical community and caregivers versus the pro anorexia and pro self harm communities allowing caregivers or medical professionals to understand hidden online communities young people in their care may be part of it delves into the often unanticipated needs of those who band together to resist the healthcare community suggesting practical ways to address their concerns and encourage healing chapters investigate the alarming ease with which ideas of self harm can infect people through personal contact community unease or even fiction and song and the potential of the internet to transmit self harmful ideas across countries and even periods of time the book also outlines the real nature of harm based communities online examining both their appeal and dangers while also examining self censorship and intervention methods for dealing with harmful content online rather than pointing to punishment or censorship as best practice the book offers constructive guidelines that outline a more holistic approach based on the validity of expressing negative mood and the creation of safe peer support networks making it ideal reading for professionals protecting vulnerable people as well as students and academics in psychology mental health and social care
